IMPROVEMENT IN THE STARTING AT AQUEDUCT.

Jockeys Held in Check-Tax Man Case to Go Higher Up—Feeling Against "Father Bill" Daly—Trainers Displeased at Hard Surface of Tracks.

The first week of the metropolitan racing The first week of the instropolitan radius season, just closed, was on the whole filled with profit for the bookmakers and indifferent success for the players. It is a bit too early to gauge form correctly and for that reason the selection of favorites is not altogether easy. The sport has been of a higher class than formerly in that many of the larger stables have been represented at Aqueduct, a place that in the past was shunned by them. Barring Saturday, the work of Starter Cassidy has been exceptionally good. In spite of big fields the no-recall system has worked like a charm, few horses being left. But on Satur-day there was a hoodoo somewhere. That day there was a hoodoo somewhere. That is bound to happen, however, whenever a well-played horse fails to get away with his field. Mr. Cassidy has insisted upon discipline from the very outset. During the week he inflicted punishment upon Burns, Shaw, Wonderly, Bullman and other jockeys, but in singling out the high-priced riders he has served due notice that no favoritism will prevail. As a result and also because of the presence of the new starting judge, H. A. loman, at the post, the jockeys have shown marked tendency to behave obediently. It does not require much persuasion to have them walk their horses up to the barrier. stand them still and then rush them off with a jump the moment the machine is sprung. That poor starts have been marked up against Cassidy have been due chiefly to green two-Cassidy have been due chiefly to great two-year-olds. Several owners and trainers of these youngsters have, for some reason, re-frained from sending them to the barrier to be schooled, something that the stewards of the meeting should insist upon without further delay. It hardly seems fair to the betting public to neglect this important matter which is of as much benefit to the owners as

There were just two instances of queer running last week, one of which the stewards lost no time in taking in hand. That was Jockey Hayden's ride on R. T. Myers's Tax Man last Friday. Those who bet on this colt and then saw their money burned up were and then saw their money burned up were loud in their protests against Hayden's performance. One of the stewards is quoted as saying that Hayden was "guilty of the rawest kind of pulling," which, when asked about it, the boy could not explain beyond the statement that the colt bore out with him all the way. On Saturday the stewards of the meeting held a further investigation of the case, having in hand, it is said, evidence against Myers, sent on here by the stewards of the recent meeting at Bennings, where Myers's horses did some peculiar work. It was rumored yesterday by men who are in touch with the racing authorities that the Jockey Club stewards will be asked to take up the case with the recommendation that both jookey and owner be ruled off the turf.

There is also a pretty strong feeling.

to take up the case with the recommendation that both jookey and owner be ruled off the turf.

There is also a pretty strong feeling among turfmen against W. C. Daly because of the poor running of Himself in the Carter handicap last Tueday and his signal victory in the last race on Saturday. It is not so much because of the coit's change of form that racing men are finding fault with "Father Bill" but because of the latter's habit of putting up inexperienced or incompetent boys at a time when a good jockey is demanded by the public. In the Carter Handicap Daly could have satisfied a general demand by putting up Brennan on Himself instead of Creamer, even if four or five pounds overweight had been necessary, but Daly let Creamer have the mount with the result that the Himyar coit got a glaringly bad ride. In Saturday's race Brennan handled Himself with consummate skill, which made the backers of the colt on the opening day gnash their teeth. The fact that J. D. Crimmins, Jr., owner of Intrusive, said after Saturday's race that he would never allow his horse to run in another race with Himself because it was an utter impossibility to gauge correctly the Daly coit's form is sufficient evidence to show that Himself's victory is worthy of deep thought.

It looks very much as iff the Messrs. Keene would have a sine crop of two-year-olds this year. James R. Keene said the other day:

his year. James R. Reene said the other lay:

"I consider the two-year-olds quartered to Brockdale the finest lot of youngsters hat I have ever bred. Several colts and lilies by Ben Brush have shown in trials hat they possesse high quality. Flying Prince is one of the best in the string. Brush by, Duster and Birch Broom are also great avorites with me. I expect great things of Coproy in England this season. He left here in first class condition and landed abroad without a blemish or the slightest illness of he does not astonish the British horsemen will be disappointed. Cap and Bells, who of Corroy in England this season. He left hers in first-class condition and landed abroad without a blemish or the slightest illness. If he does not astonish the British horsemen I will be disappointed. Cap and Bells, who won the Cake, is a grand mare. I had her entered in all the great four-year-old and aged events, including the $60,000 Jubilee Blakes, Ascot Gold Cup and $60,000 Jubilee Blakes, Ascot Gold Cup and $60,000 Jockey Club Btakes. Rearrarge, I believe, is the best three-year-old I have in England From the latest reports, I give the Sandin colt the oredit of being the crack two-year-old. All my horses have wintered exceptionally well and are in fine condition. None of them has gone amiss and I have not received word about one that is lame.

It is unofficially stated that the State Racing Commission has consented to license the Metropolitan Jockey Club of Jamaica for a fall meeting of the Queens County Jockey Club. As the season at Aqueduct closes on Nov. 15, the plan is to allow the new track to race on Nov. 10, 11, 12, 13, 14 and 15, with twenty-five days of racing next season. This will make it necessary to open the Bennings meeting a week later than erriginally planned, but it will last a week longer, soing into December. It was not intended to ask for dates this year, but Senator T D Sullivan and his friends, finding that the track will be completed by the 1st of July, if not before, decided to ask for a week at least in which to introduce their new plant to the racing public. The track is well under way now and it is said that fully $600,000 will have been spent in its construction before the gates are opened. It is rumored that next year some of the Aqueduct dates will be lopped off and also that the Westchester Racing Association will be compelled to use every Friday in order to let the Sullivan track into the fold.

Several interesting stake races will be decided at Aqueduct this week for two-year-olds will bring together, among others, Bensonhurst, Blue and Granse Stakes for two-year-olds wi at their tracks, have countenanced and encouraged the scraping of the surface until on some of the local race courses the cushion of soft earth, which proved a protection to the feet of the thoroughbreds, has been almost entirely removed. This has left the tracks hard and slippery and in consequence two-year-oids receive such a farring that many of them break down entirely before the end of their initial season. The situation is rendered worse because of the fact that the public tracks provide almost the only means of getting a horse into condition in this country and the horses have to take their daily gallops over ground which is decidedly hard going. It is understood that the matter will be brought to the attention of the officials of the racing associations and a change for the better is expected to follow, which will, it is hoped, put a check on the frequency of cases of breakdowns that have lately caused such severe losses to owners.

LEXINGTON, April 20 .- John Rodegap has sent Inventor a trial mile preparatory to shipping him to Louisville to start in the Kentucky Derby. The trial was over T. C. Kentucky Derby. The trial was over T. C. McDowell's private track and was supposed to be secret. With him was worked South Elkhorn, owned by W. H. McCorkle. The former had 117 pounds up and the latter 105. The time was: Half, 0:50% seconds; three-quarters, 1:15, and one mile, 1:41%. Inventor is by imp. Ingoldsby—imp. Duchess Caroline.

Lexinoton, April 20.—At Williamett Stud here yesterday imp. Cindereila, dam of Plaudit, Hastings, and other good horses, foaled a brown colt by imp. Top Gallant. It is said that W. C. Whitney has leased the mare, who belongs to Dr. J. D. Neet of Versaillee, for $10,000, and will breed her to Hamburg, for the purpose of getting a sire with blood lines to his fliding. Mr. Neet, it is said, refused to sell the mare through sentiment.

F. H. Ellis of Philadelphia has bought of H. M. Bossworth here the four-year-old bay gelding Arient, trial 2.25, by Berkshire Chimes—Ozili A. The price was $2,000.

Nashville, April 20.—Everything possible is Arient, trial 2.25, by Berkshire Chimes—Ozili A. The price was $2.000.

NASHVILLE, April 20.—Everything possible is being done by the Tennessee Breeders' Association to make the Cumberland meeting which opens next Thursday a success. The people of Nashville are taking more interest in the Derby this year than in many years. Some of the best three-year-olds on the turf will contend for the big prize, including Abe Frank, winner of the Tennessee Derby and the favorite for the American Derby. W. T. Baldwin's stable, including Circus, winner of the Montgomery Handicap at Memphis and a Cumberland Derby candidate, arrived at Cumberland Park Friday night. During the past week the weather was beautiful and the track fast. Some fast work was done and the record for the preliminary work made when Olefiant, the black filly by imp. Ornus, out of Alveria M., in John Greener's stable was sent five eighths in 1:01 %.

Excitement Among Drivers When Sharkey's

Hat Blew Off. The biggest crowd of the season turned out on the Brooklyn Speedway yesterday. but contrary to expectations there were few set brushes. As to the crowd it was more in the order of a general outing, and it was as cosmopolitan as could well be imagined. Of course, there was some fast trotting in fact, every annial that could at all put on a gait kept moving an order to keep in touch with the rush. An innovation hap-pened in that those drivers who were really out for recreation were separated from those who were inclined to show off the speed of who were inclined to show off the speed of their steppers. On each side of the Speedway the go-as-you-please crowd plodded along while the centre of the road was reserved for the cracks.

Prominent smong those in the middle of the road was Ton Sharkey sitting behind Dick W. 71st. Once during a short dash the burly puglist's hat flew off and his sudden stop to catch his refractory headgear nearly caused a wild commotion among the others. When Sharkey stopped every other vehicle helpind him had to come to a hait, too, and the sudden backing of the spirited animals caused a lot of prancing and uneasiness. Terry McCiovern was there with Miss Fleanny, 71% It was whispered that McGiovern was abstous to have a feeler with bharkey, as he thinks his mace can show her head to Dick W or Merry Pat, 232%. Harlem oarsmen are to have a gala opening

In one respect at least the National League's race this season has been better than last. That one respect is the weather—an outside influence it is true, but when one remembers the rain and postponements of last spring the clear skies of this year help him forget for the time being that the National League in its entiretydoes not possess the class in playing ability that it did a year ago. There is a chance for that class to materialize, provided the young blood so plentiful in the League this season develops, but young blood does not develop in a day. The new material in the League, has on the whole made a favorable impression so far as a three days' test counts. With all the pleasant weather the air has been too cool for the best playing, in a measure accounting for the numerous errors made, and the more seasoned men will do better as the weather gets warmer. The batting in ithe League has averaged up pretty well so far but a higher thermometer will mean stronger arms in the box and then the batters, particularly the new comers, will have a harder time of it.

The New York team before the championship season began was rated better in fielding than batting. In the championship games, the team's batting has been more noticeable than its fielding. It must be borne in mind, however, that the New Yorks have yet to face a pitcher this season who has an established reputation. In fielding the team has shown unsteadiness, a by no means incurable fault. If there was more ground covered by the fielders it would be more pleasing to the team's friends. The brief portion of the season that has passed into history has called attention to the team's uncertainty as to box strangth. Mathewson seems to be as good as ever, but for the others proof has yet to be furnished that they will be able to hold up their end. In base running the New Yorke have shown steone and always been in evidence.

The work of the Brooklyns thus far has been in the League, barring Pittsburg. Handon's teams always have steamed. There are things they h assertion that whenever defeated his horse has always in a return bout laid low his opponent. In yesterday's battle of the kings. Ed Locke got away with all sails set, kept in the way of a grand parade and water carnival on Sunday, May 11. The details of the affair were outlined and agreed upon at a meeting held yesterday at the Metroat a meeting held yesterday at the Metro-politan Rowing Club, at which all the Harlem clubs were represented. A committee ap-pointed with James Pilkington, Harlem Rowing Club, as chairman, will have charge of the arrangements, and it is proposed that the celebration shall mark an era in Harlem the celebration shall mark an era in Harlem boating history and be attractive from every standpoint. The plans roughly calculated at yesterday's conclave are that every club on the Harlem River shall be represented in force, and invitations are to be issued to the clube on the Hudson. In the morning of the day selected all the racing shells, gigs. barges, rowboats and other craft will muster in front of "Soullers' Row." All the houses are to be decorated and the occupants of each house will be kept alive by the strains of a brass band. Then at a signal from the Com-modere each club is to hoist its colors and the parade will start amid blowing of whistles and the roar of cannon and general noise. First in line, paddling four deep, will be the single shells and single gigs, followed by the doubles, pairs, fours, gigs, shells and eight-oared shells. Following the eights will be the barges carrying the retired oarsmen and women. The rear will be adorned by such steam, naphtha and other launches as are steam, naphtha and other launches as are owned by members of the boat Iclub. The itinerary will be along the Speedway course to Sherman Creek and back to "Sculler's Row." Fireworks and other displays will wind up the show. It is the intention of the rowing men to invite prominent city officials to review the parade and for this purpose the stand erected by the Road Drivers Association, whose parade will be the Saturday previous, will be used. Members of the latter organization who have been approached have expressed themselves in favor of the water carnival and will aid it in every way.

Mømbers of the latter organization who have been approached have expressed themselves in favor of the water carnival and will aid it in every way.

Though the weather yesterday was fine, the water was churned into uncomfortable eddies by a strong breeze, but this did not keep the oarsmen indoors, and those who have designs on Memorial Day medals took their usual exercise. The only senior eight out was that of the Harlem Rowing Club, and they tore up the river regardless of wind or wave. While the sturdy eight were ripping holes in the brine at the rate of thirty-nine strokes to the minute the less industrious members of the club were indusing in a gay time within doors. It was the club's "opening day." No change was made in the crew. In order that local followers of rowing may see a real smashing race on Memorial Day the Harlems have sent an invitation to the Argonauts of Toronto to come to New York for a race. The Argonauts have entered for the Grand Challenge Cup at Henley next July. Next door to the Harlems the "Mets" exhibited a streak of exceptional eagerness for work. Two eights who expect to figure in their racing clothes on May 21 did a lot of work. The first one out was a junior crew composed of Dr. Monahan, stroke; Emerson, No. 7; Hatton, No. 6; O'Thaherty, No. 5; Calleghan, No. 4; Thompson, No. 3; King, No. 2; Myers, bow, and Corbett, corswain. The intermediate crew may be subject to a slight change, but yesterday the positions in which they sat were: Ebert, bow; R. Emerson, No. 2; O'Connor, No. 5; J. Dunn, No. 4; E. L. Dunn, No. 5; Murphy, No. 6; "Billy" Regan, No. 7; Chichario, stroke, and Hunt, coxswain. Johnson and Connor of the "Mets" will try their luck in the junior doubles.

The senior four of the Wyanokes composed of Kniervin, stroke; Breen, No. 5; Vogney, No. 2; and B. Mills, bow, took a long spin and are rounding into shape, despite the many obstacles to their training. Capt. Breen has about thirty candidates preparing for a junior eight and he Kramer Breaks Quarter-Mile Record on Vallsburg Track.

Vailaburg track yesterday to see the cycle contests. The quarter-mile flying start for professionals was won by the national champion, Frank Kramer. His time was 28 1-5 seconds, which is a new world's record. The five-mile handicap for professionals was a spirited contest. Both the national and the five-mile champions were beaten. Kramer raced into the lead on the back stretch, and seemed to have clear sailing. In the stretch Fern, the five-mile champion, overhauled him, and McFarland coming fast just behind managed to beat them both out by a few inches. "Teddy" Billington rode with the emblem of the New York A. C. on for the first time. Summaries:
